My 9 year old grandson loved this book. I read to him nightly over the phone since we live in different states, and he chose the book. I love the Who Was books, and have never been disappointed. This one gave a lot of insight into Davy Crockett's life that I did not know about. I like learning along with him!

This was for my 12 year old nephew, and he did a book report from it. He enjoyed the book a lot, and asked me for more books like it! This was his first book about a historical "hero" and was definitely a good read for him.

I love all the who was series! My son loves to read about real people and real events so we often incorporate hear books into our homeschool curriculum or required reading! They give lots of info without being boring!!

Loved this man. He loved and respected the great outdoors. Wonderful family man loved our Country. I love these books because it helps me connect to my family.

I have recommended the "Who is..." series to many mothers with boys in the third and fourth grades. The best part is that my son and I both learn as we read. This particular book features the story behind Davy Crockett. We read it right after we finished the "What was the Alamo" book.

My elementary aged boys LOVE the "Big Head Books" series. Easy to read and full of information on important historical figures.

If you want to learn about the Alamo this is a great book for you!!!! tell you that this book is the best book ever you should get it!!!:)BY:JENNA
